

This exclusive Turkish beach hotel feels more like Hawaii

A private cove, jungle-style surroundings and delicious locally sourced menus await at Yazz Collective, a vibey, luxury hideaway not far from Fethiye

I'm stranded on a beach near Fethiye, but it's no hardship. I'm fortified by local rosé, freshly caught turbot, ceviche, and bowls of salad tossed with local strawberries and olive oil. This is life at Yazz Collective, a 16-room boutique hotel in a private cove on the Turkish Riviera, where the only way in and out is on a glossily tanned wooden speedboat. Once you arrive, you're stuck — in the best possible way.

Four more great stays on the Turkish coast

3. Nautical and Perdue hotels, Faralya

New to southwest Turkey from NLG collective (Naturally Luxurious Getaway) are two boutique hotels overlooking the Aegean Sea. Perdue is adults-only and guests stay in luxury safari-style tents, each with a private hot tub amid olive groves and orange trees along the shoreline. Nautical – five minutes along the coast – welcomes children over the age of 14 and offers luxury adventures from scenic hikes along the Lycian Way to a Jeep safari tour or even paragliding from the nearby Babadag slope. Guests at both hotels can also book a boat trip or extend their stay on one of NLG's fleet of luxury boats, including a yacht that sleeps eight guests and has a hot tub on board.

Details B&B doubles at Perdue from £284; B&B doubles at Nautical from £315 (naturallyluxuriousgetaway.com). Fly to Dalaman